The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 3-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over EP 499,154.

With respect to claim 1, '154 discloses a plurality of screen rods 3 each having side walls 7, 8 (see FIG. 2), at least one of the side walls defining at least one protrusion 36, at least one rod bearing support element 1' having a shape that is complementary to the protrusion of the rod, wherein each protrusion of the rod is received within a recess of the supporting element. '154 fails to specify the limitation of the protrusions having a circular or elliptic shape, however, such changes in shape are considered obvious absent any persuasive evidence that such configurations are structurally significant (see In re Dailey, 357 F.2d 669, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1966)). '154 discloses the protrusions 36 as having a radius r (e.g., at opposite sides of the protrusion) but fails to specify the range of .1mm<r<2mm, however, such relative dimensions are not considered to be a patentable distinction since the instant invention would not appear to function any differently than the '154 device.

With respect to claim 3, '154 discloses each of the rods as having an embedded end with at least one of the rods having a plurality of protrusions 36, 36'. '154 fails to specify the protrusions as being positioned at a distance .1mm<h₁<6mm, however, such relative dimensions are not considered to be a patentable distinction since the instant invention would not appear to function any differently than the '154 device.

Regarding claims 4 and 5, '154 fails to specify the limitation of the rods as having three or more protrusions received within recesses in one side wall of the supporting elements as recited in claim 4, or the limitation of the first sidewall as having a different number of protrusions that the second sidewall as recited in claim 5, however, the mere duplication of parts / number of protrusions is not considered to be patently significant unless a new and unexpected result is produced (see In re Harza, 274 F2.d 669, 124 USPQ 378 (CCPA 1960)).

Concerning claim 6 '154 fails to specify the limitation of the supporting elements as having a T-shape as recited in claim 6, however, such changes in shape are considered obvious absent any persuasive evidence that such configurations are structurally significant (see In re Dailey, 357 F.2d 669, 149 USPQ 47 (CCPA 1966)).

With respect to claim 7, '154 discloses each of the rods as having a total height H and an embedded portion protruding into the supporting element having a height h but fails to specify the ratio of h to H as being greater than 0.5, however, such relative dimensions are not considered to be a patentable distinction since the instant invention would not appear to function any differently than the '154 device.

Regarding claim 8, '154 discloses the rods as having an embedded portion pressed together with the supporting element (e.g., due to the clamping force exerted upon the rods by the supporting elements).

Applicant's arguments filed 8-13-02 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the EP '154 reference fails to disclose protrusions and recess having a complementary shape, however, it is held that Figures 2-3 of the reference discloses such an arrangement. Applicant argues that the circular or elliptical shapes recited in claim 1 are structurally significant since such shapes lead to a more even area pressure, however, the rejection is maintained since applicant has not provided evidence to the effect that such shapes would function any better than the rounded/semi-eliptical/circular shape shown Figures 2-3 of the '154 reference.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
